Installation of Video Conferencing Equipment At Hospitals And Jails

The Computer Committee of the High Court of Manipur, under the aegis of the e-Committee, Supreme Court of India, has taken an important step by installing Video conferencing equipment at Sajiwa Jail, Manipur Central Jail, RIMS Hospital, JNIMS Hospital and District hospitals of Bishnupur, Thoubal, Churachandpur, Ukhrul, and Senapati. The video conferencing equipment they provided includes an all-in-one desktop, a 55-inch TV screen, a webcam, a UPS and a Microphone with speakers. In earlier days, the doctors were required to appear physically in court to record their depositions for cases in which they were prosecution witnesses. This causes inconveniences to medical professionals during their busy duty schedule. Similarly, the production of under-trial prisoners physically from the Jail for court hearings is of grave concern due to security concerns during transportation. However, with this initiative, the burden on the doctors and prisoners for physical appearance in court has been minimised to a great extent.

A dedicated team has been deputed to analyse the

E-Courts International Capacity Building Programme for Technical Court staff from All High Courts - Key Takeaways

The e-Courts International Capacity Building Programme (Singapore) – 2025 (Batch 1) for the Court Staff from each High Court was conducted from 17th March 2025 to 21st March 2025. This program was coordinated by the e-Committee of the Supreme Court of India and the Indian Institute of Public Administration (IIPA) to provide insights into Singapore's advanced judicial system and its integration of technology in court processes. The participants included System Officers, Software Programmers, System Analysts and CPCs from various High Courts across India who attended a series of sessions and visits to understand Singapore's best practices in judicial technology, artificial intelligence and digital governance. The participants undertook a series of visits and interactions at various legal and educational institutions in Singapore particularly focusing on their technological integrations. The participants visited The Law Society of Singapore and interacted with and learned about the eCourts System, specifically the e-Litigation software (similar to CIS-India) and the SG Court app (like eCourts Services App India). They were shown the application of AI for Document Content analysis and Singpass, a digital identity tool. The participants visited the Singapore International Arbitration Centre (SIAC), where they engaged in discussions and observed demonstrations of the SIAC gateway (Arbitral e-filing) application. They also gained insights into AI usage and technologies at Maxwell

Chambers. A visit was made by the participants to the Supreme Court of Singapore, where they observed the Smart Courtroom, the Audio Recording and Transcription Service, Assistive Listening Systems using Hearing Loop technology and the use of virtual hearings (VC). The participants had interactions at the Ministry of Law, Singapore, which provided insights into Singapore's legal policy framework. The participants attended the Legal Innovation Workshop at the Singapore Academy of Law, which featured discussions and demonstrations of Legal Generative AI, Legal Tech and Harvey AI. They were introduced to applications such as MPATHY, INSIGHT, LIGHTHOUSE and MINER. At the Family Justice Courts, the participants observed the Integrated Family Court System (IFMS) for case management and Virtual Counters using Zoom.

They visited Mediation Centre/Counselling Centres equipped with KIOSK facilities. During their visit to the State Courts of Singapore, the Integrated Case Management System (ICMS) was highlighted to the participants. They also visited The Law Society Pro Bono SG Office. A visit was also made by the participants to the Singapore University of Social Sciences (SUSS), where they observed the use of Virtual Reality (VR) applications and 3D crime scene simulations in legal education. Finally, the participants visited the Yong Pung How School of Law, Singapore Management University (SMU). The e-Courts International Capacity Building Programme in Singapore offered crucial insights into leveraging technology for judicial reform.

The following are some learnings from the tour:

1. Tech-Driven Efficiency Across

Judicial Tiers: Singapore's judiciary has successfully integrated technology at every level of its system, from the Supreme Court to the State Courts and Family Courts. This integration has led to significant enhancements in efficiency, transparency, and accessibility in legal processes.

2. Mandatory Digitalisation for Paperless Operations:

The program underscored the importance of mandatory e-filing and digital authentication. These are crucial steps towards creating truly paperless court environments, reducing administrative burden and speeding up judicial processes, similar to the e-Litigation system used by Singapore's Supreme Court.

3. AI for Advanced Legal Support and Efficiency:

The discussions highlighted the significant potential of AI-powered tools (such as Harvey AI) to revolutionise legal research, streamline case management, and boost overall judicial efficiency.

4. Robust Cybersecurity and Data Privacy as Cornerstones:

Maintaining the integrity and confidentiality of court data necessitates robust cybersecurity measures and comprehensive data privacy regulations. The Personal Data Protection Act, 2012, in Singapore and the emphasis on secure practices like 2FA for administrative accounts serve as vital examples for protecting sensitive legal information.

5. Citizen-Centric Digital Services for Enhanced Access: The program showcased how unified digital identities like Singpass and various online assistance tools significantly improve public access to justice.

6. Continuous Capacity Building and Training: The successful adoption and utilisation of technology within the judiciary are heavily dependent on continuous training and capacity building. The Singapore Academy of Law's regular training on software and email usage, along with programs like FLIP (Future Law Innovation Programme), emphasise the need for ongoing skill development for legal professionals.

7. Strategic Policy Framework and Collaborative Approach:

Effective implementation of digital transformation initiatives requires a strong policy framework and a collaborative approach among various stakeholders. The insights gained from interactions with the Ministry of Law and the Singapore Academy of Law underscored the importance of a well-defined legal policy and regulatory structure to drive innovation and ensure access to justice.

8. Innovation in Legal Education:

The visits to the Singapore University of Social Sciences (SUSS) and the Yong

Pung How School of Law at SMU demonstrated how legal education is evolving to meet the demands of a digitalized legal landscape.

9. Focus on Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR): The visit to the Singapore International Arbitration Centre (SIAC) and Maxwell Chambers highlighted Singapore's advanced framework for international dispute resolution, including the use of arbitral e-filing applications like the SIAC gateway.

The e-Courts International Capacity Building Programme in Singapore – 2025 has been a valuable and transformative experience for the participating officers. The exposure to Singapore's technologically advanced judicial system has provided deep insights into best practices and potential strategies for modernising the Indian judiciary. The learnings and suggestions derived from this program will contribute significantly to the ongoing efforts of the e-Committee to enhance efficiency, transparency and access to justice through digital transformation in India. The participants expressed their gratitude to the e-Committee, the IIPA and the Singapore Judiciary for organising this insightful and impactful training program.
